

RIGGING TYPES

These are examples of Colorado Saddlery's most popular rigging styles, the Hanging Dee, the Flat Plate and the Colorado Saddlery 3-Way "Perfect Rig"™.

Hanging Dee Rigging

Flat Plate Rigging

Colorado Saddlery 3-Way "Perfect Rig"™

The 3 Way "Perfect Rig"™ is designed to allow you to set the position of your cincha at the full, 7/8 or 3/4 position depending on the horse or the country you are riding in. The self-centering rigging is designed so that the tie straps hang true no matter the position. With the "Perfect Rig"™ design the tie straps sit closer to the horse for less bulk under your legs and closer contact.

To you this means close contact with your horse and a saddle that will sit straight and ride comfortably on your horse's back.

No matter how you ride, the horse used or the country you ride in, this is the perfect rig! The Colorado Saddlery 3 Way "Perfect Rig"™ is perfect for roping, riding and ranching!

GENERAL INFORMATION ON RIGGING TYPES

The rigging is what holds the saddle to the horse. It is attached to the tree with heavy screws and can come in a variety of styles and positions. The riggings we use are especially designed to be secure no matter what kind of riding the saddle is used for.

RIGGING POSITIONS

Rigging position determines where the saddle will sit on the horse's back and where the cincha will ride on the horse's belly. The most popular position is the 7/8.

7/8 Position

Full Double Position

3/4 Position

HAVE QUESTIONS?

e-mail us

sales@coloradosaddlery.com

COLORADO SADDLERY'S
3 WAY "PERFECT RIG"™

Full Position - Used when you want the swell pulled down tight over the wither. An excellent position for roping or for riding young horses.

Full Double Position

7/8 Position - Moves the cincha farther back from the front legs. Good for everyday riding and light roping. This is the position is the most commonly used.

7/8 Position

3/4 Position - Moves the cincha farther back allowing for more freedom for leg movement. This position is great for gaited horses and horses where saddle slipping is a problem.

3/4 Position